

ESTABLISHED 1861.

REVOLUTION HAS BROKEN OUT IN THE CAPITAL CITY OF GREECE

SCATHING CRITICISM IS MADE OF DEMOCRATIC IGNORANCE

ESSENTIAL FACTS FOR WEST VIRGINIANS

Here are some essential facts: West Virginia produces annually about 50,000,000 tons of coal, worth about $55,000,000. Coal enjoys a protective tariff duty of forty-five cents a ton, or approximately forty-five per cent. valued at the mouth of the mine.

West Virginia produces annually about $20,000,000 worth of lumber. Lumber enjoys a protective tariff duty of $1.50 per thousand, or approximately twenty per cent.

West Virginia produces annually about $12,000,000 worth of wool. Wool enjoys a protective tariff duty of eleven cents a pound, or approximately thirty-five per cent.

West Virginia produces annually about $8,000,000 worth of potteries. Pottery products enjoy a protective tariff duty of from fifty to sixty-five per cent.

West Virginia produces annually about $5,000,000 worth of glass. Glass enjoys a protective tariff duty of from thirty to forty-five per cent. West Virginia produces annually about $15,000,000 worth of tin plate and other iron and steel products. These enjoy protective tariff duties ranging from twenty to fifty per cent.

Here are the great industries and the great financial interests of West Virginia. Take them away and you leave little but barren hillsides and unproductive valleys. Destroy or impair their value or their earning capacity, and you will reduce West Virginia from a state of prosperity to a state of destitution.

With the protective tariff these industries have prospered and will continue to prosper. Without the protective duty there is no future for them.

West Virginia during the brief period between 1892 and 1896 had an experience with national administration under a party that does not believe in the Republican principle of protection. In the light of that history, and in light of the facts above, can West Virginians seriously consider the wisdom of entrusting the future to men who profess opposition to the protective tariff?

Attorney General William G. Cooley Calls the Wheeling Register.

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE

Of Debt Suit is Indicated by Views Taken by That Newspaper.

The Telegram is in receipt of a copy of the following communication from the attorney general of the state William G. Cooley, which he has sent to the Wheeling Register:

October 25, 1910.
To the Editor of the Daily Register:
My attention has been called to editorials in the Wheeling Daily Register concerning the suit of the commonwealth of Virginia against the state of West Virginia, commonly known as the Virginia debt suit, in which editorials you seem to indicate that you have no knowledge of the proceedings in that suit, and also indicate that the public is likewise situated. There has been furnished through this department to all the newspapers in the state of West Virginia, including the Wheeling Register, a complete copy of the printed record in this suit upon which Master Littlefield based his report. For fear you have misplaced the record heretofore sent you, and in order that you may be fully informed on the subject, I am sending you today by express such record, consisting of volumes I, II, III and IV, aggregating more than 2,250 printed pages.
Counsel representing West Virginia have no desire to keep from the public anything that has been done in this important case, and the newspapers throughout the state, without regard to politics, have been furnished the record, as heretofore stated, and were therefore at liberty to keep the public informed. If any person wants this record this department will furnish the same as long as the supplies last. Immediately after the master has filed his report in the United States supreme court, there was prepared and sent out by this department a statement explaining fully to the people of the state the matters involved in the report and the effect thereof as we conceived it. A copy of this statement in addition to the printed record referred to above, was sent to the Wheeling Register, and, as I now recall, was published in full therein. For fear you have also misplaced this statement we are sending you a copy thereof herewith.
As stated above, there is no disposition to keep from the people of the state anything whatever concerning

A FEW TARIFF REDUCTION FACTS

Here are a few facts which show how moderate tariff reductions made in the Payne bill affect West Virginia industries:

First—in ten months, under the Payne law, imports of iron, bloom and slabs into this country increased from $9,349,599 lbs. to 78,465,588 lbs.

Imports of bar iron in ten months under the Payne law increased from 29,669,713 lbs. to 74,981,057 lbs.

Imports of tin plate in ten months, increased from 97,997,125 lbs. to 140,905,233 lbs.

Imports of woolen goods increased from 32,590,153 lbs. to 49,418,000 lbs.

Imports of structural iron in ten months under the Payne law increased from 10,144,219 lbs. to 19,679,127 lbs.

Imports of plate glass under the Payne law in ten months increased from 2,033,423 square feet to 3,354,545 square feet.

This is what a very moderate reduction in tariff duties has done to stimulate the buying of foreign goods, and the importation of foreign manufactures. These goods might all have been made in America. Still we hear the cry for further revision of the tariff downwards. When Mr. John W. Davis and the other Democratic candidates for congress in West Virginia would make far more sweeping tariff reductions than the Payne law did.

Do the working men of West Virginia want more tariff revision downwards?

Do they want more foreign goods to be imported into the United States?

Are they too busy now? Do they want to make iron and steel and glass and potteries, and woolen goods in America, or do they want to close our own factories and buy them abroad?

LEADERS PLEASED WITH THE REPORT

SENATOR WESLEY JONES WILL BE HERE MONDAY.

As announced by the county committee the next big Republican rally to be held in the city will be at the court house next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

A fine band has been procured for the occasion, and arrangements are being perfected for a big meeting. Every voter is invited to attend and hear one of the greatest orators and debaters in the country. A special invitation is extended to ladies to be present.

Wesley L. Jones, United States senator from the state of Washington, will be the speaker on that occasion. He is a man of national reputation and one of the most eloquent speakers the country has today. Everyone is interested in the campaign and no one can afford not to hear Senator Jones.

Made by the State Board of Control, and Situation in General.

[Charles Brooks Smith.]
CHARLESTON, Oct. 27.—The most important happening this week, having to do with a powerful effect on the present campaign, was the report of the State Board of Control of its financial statement. It was known prior to the making of the report and its delivery to Governor Glasscock, that the board would show a saving in one year of $250,000. That much was announced. But the report shows even better than that. The report announced that the board would return to the state treasury the immense sum of $304,534.12. That Governor Glasscock was surprised and pleased over this fine showing of economy, is putting it mildly. That the Republican officials and leaders here hailed the splendid report of the board with joy is also self-evident. They were jubilant. Viewed from the campaign's standpoint, Governor Glasscock didn't underestimate the value of the report when he said: "We ought to win this year on the strength of this report without the help of any other issue." If the Democratic managers hadn't eliminated "extravagance" as an issue two weeks and more ago, this report of the Board of Control would certainly effectually put that issue out of the running as one of the Democratic paramounts.

May Be Two to Elect.
There are many reports about the condition of Senator S. B. Ekins.

BLACK HAND GANG MUST SERVE TIME

Supreme Court of the State Affirms Decision of the Lower Court.

Nine Italians who have been in jail here a year or more convicted of being members of a Black Hand society in Marion county will have to serve ten years in the penitentiary and another one year in jail.

A Charleston newspaper gives the following account of action taken this week by the state supreme court in their case:

In an opinion handed down by President Ira Robinson, the supreme court of appeals affirms the decision of the circuit court of Marion county in the case of the state against Frank Piscioneri and others of the convicted Black Hand aggregation who operated in and about Fairmont.

The court in Marion county found some of the men guilty of a felony and others of a misdemeanor, and eight of them, together with Piscioneri prosecuted the writ of error.

Nine out of nineteen of the men, all of them Italians, were convicted of a felony and were sentenced to serve ten years in the penitentiary. The other ten were convicted of misdemeanor, all of them having been connected with the theft of property from another Italian of the name of Boradelli, who brought the charges which resulted in the convictions.

The charges were brought out in the trial that the men accused and later convicted had been practicing Black Hand methods for some time and in this specific case were found guilty. The case attracted a great deal of attention, and it was renewed when application for a writ of error and supersedeas was applied for by attorneys for the convicted men.

"SMACK!" "SMACK!"

By Male Foreigners Shows Difference Between Foreign and American Customs.

The difference between foreign and American customs was quite satisfactorily demonstrated at the Baltimore & Ohio passenger station Thursday morning, when two foreigners, fresh from the old country, arrived, their telescope suit cases bearing the large label, "Disinfected," on one end. Two other foreigners, relatives presumably, were awaiting their arrival, and as they stepped off the train each of the latter implanted two loud kisses square on the others' lips. As all four were masculine gender, the salutation greatly amused the passengers who heard it.

Thousands of Children of Little Rock Form a Living Flag

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

While Little Rock, Ark., is a good sized city, it ran out of children on the recent visit of Colonel Roosevelt through the south. The citizens of Little Rock wanted to give the ex-president something unique in decorations, and so all the school children were organized into a mammoth living flag. Under a canopy with the word "Liberty" spelled in flowers Colonel Roosevelt addressed the children. The school officials had to select the children for the white stripes and red stripes, and each little one dressed accordingly. The children that formed the stars were dressed in blue, and then for an hour they sat on a giant grand stand while they listened to an address from the former president.

FINE BIOGRAPH

At the Bijou Today Showing That True Love is Always Triumphant.

"The Message of the Violin" is the title of the latest Biograph showing at the Bijou today. The ends of Cupid's plans are sometimes frustrated, but give him a secure hold on two affianced hearts and there is no power strong enough to thwart him in his purpose. Separations, quarrels and the like may occur, but his winning is invincible. This Biograph shows two young people who fell in love and plighted their troth, then became separated for a number of years. The girl's father becomes wealthy, the young man's father and family go down in this world's goods. The young man becomes famous in music and later meets the girl at a reception, where he is engaged to perform. During the program he plays one of the old melodies he used to play for the girl. It is needless to say that the betrothal of the girl and the baron was not announced. It is a beautiful story.

More Bloody Fights Occur and Bartender and Part Owner Are Jailed.

Resulting from a series of bloody battles from early morning to late at night in the Charles McBride saloon on Baltimore street opposite the railroad station, the city council will be called in special session by Mayor Frank R. Moore for the purpose of investigating the place and deciding whether it should be permitted to have a license.

Awaiting the action of the council in the case, Joseph Musage, bartender, and Samuel Bilott, who says he is part owner of the place, are prisoners in jail. The bartender was arrested twice Wednesday for engaging in bloody fights in the saloon and Bilott was also arrested for having a fierce encounter with some one there. Some one used a club on the former and cut a long gash in his head. City policemen were kept busy watching the saloon all yesterday.

Mayor Moore is wrathful over the manner in which the saloon has been conducted and he is heartily in favor of abolishing it. When examining the two fighters this morning in police court he remarked that about twenty fights had occurred in that place during the last two months. It was stated in the court that the street within half a square of the saloon is considered dangerous. Passengers arriving in the city from railroad trains and others are afraid to pass along there alone.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hamilton left the city Wednesday night for Roumania.
